NEGOTIATED BENEFITS

BENEFITS TO HELP YOU IN YOUR PRACTICE AND CAREER

Doctors of BC negotiates with the provincial government for fee-for-service, sessional income, and service contract physicians in the areas of compensation and benefits. These negotiated benefits are administered through Doctors of BC for our members.

Take advantage of the benefits available to you, and watch for communication from us so we can pay you these benefits.

Available negotiated benefits:

Canadian Medical Protective Association (CMPA) — BC physicians receive partial rebates on their CMPA dues to offset the rising costs of medical liability insurance.

Continuing Medical Education (CME) — These funds help to offset the costs of your professional development required to maintain your medical license.

Contributory Professional Retirement Savings Plan (CPRSP) — The Contributory Professional Retirement Savings Plan (CPRSP) encourages physicians to save for their retirement on an annual basis. This benefit provides funds to be used to contribute to a personal or spousal RRSP and/or personal Tax Free Savings Account (TFSA). This benefit can also be reimbursed to a physician’s corporation for its contribution to their Corporate Individual Pension Plan (IPP) or Corporate Registered Pension Plan (RPP).

Parental Leave Program (PLP) — This benefit provides income to physicians when on leave, and is payable for up to 17 weeks. It is payable for parental, adoption, and surrogate leave.

Government-paid Physicians’ Disability Insurance (PDI) — PDI provides you monthly income in the event of an accident or illness.

THE BEST AGREEMENTS COME FROM COLLABORATIVE RELATIONSHIPS

The Doctors of BC Negotiations team negotiates the Physician Master Agreement with the BC government that, among other things, determines the general terms and conditions applicable to contractual arrangements for physician services in BC.

The Negotiations team also provides support to physicians with their local alternative payment arrangements (e.g. service, sessional, MOCAP and administrative contracts, and salary agreements) with a Health Authority (HA) or other publicly funded agency, to help them negotiate agreements that fairly balance the interests of physicians and HAs.

We work to help physicians resolve conflicts relating to complicated contracts in a complex environment – no two cases are alike. Each negotiating challenge is different, and we cannot resolve a problem we don’t understand, so we place a great value on curiosity and strategies to gather a full appreciation of the issues before we advise or speak on behalf of our members. We know the best agreements come from collaborative relationships so we seek to develop these among physicians, between physicians and health authorities, and between our own negotiators and our counterparts across the table.

Doctors of BC’s Practice Support Program (PSP) offers services to primary care physicians practicing longitudinal patient care across the province. Funded through the Family Practice Services Committee (FPSC), practice support services include those provided through the PSP, as well as enhanced practice supports focused on priority areas (e.g. team-based care and panel management).

The Practice Support Program offers doctors resources to explore opportunities for improvement to help them to practice more efficiently, focus on providing proactive care, and work towards adopting attributes of the patient medical home in BC. With doctors’ schedules in mind, PSP’s services are customized to meet each practice’s needs.

PSP takes a tailored and flexible approach to practice facilitation, and offers a suite of services including clinical and practice management learning opportunities and tools and resources (such as Panel Management, Patient Experience Tool, PMH Assessment, and EMR Optimization). Participating doctors and team members are also eligible for compensation and certification.

In addition to the PSP, practice support services include enhanced supports focused on enabling panel management through direct, hands-on, in-practice supports (i.e. Panel Assistants) as well as providing at-the-elbow coaching to help interprofessional teams work together to deliver high functioning team-based care.

For general inquiries, please contact psp@doctorsofbc.ca.

CENTRALIZED HEALTH TECHNOLOGY SUPPORT

Doctors Technology Office (DTO) is the physician’s resource for centralized health technology information and support. With rapidly evolving tools and capabilities, it can be difficult to put the most useful tools into clinical practice. DTO supports physician practices with guidance, resources, and learning opportunities to navigate health technology solutions and implement appropriate tools using best practices.

DTO works to address the needs of the healthcare community related to EMR supports, virtual care, and clinic privacy and security. Our staff provide advisory services to optimize the use of health technology as part of a patient medical home (PMH) and primary care network (PCN), as well as a Health Technology Support Desk to assist clinics with in-office technology issues or escalations.

DTO also seeks to include the physician voice in the design and implementation of health technology solutions. They facilitate physician engagement opportunities to ensure that technology is developed in support of effective and timely patient care. Advocating on behalf of physicians and communities, DTO facilitates alignment, standardization, and collaboration in the use of health technology across the province.

Doctors of BC maintains and publishes the Doctors of BC Fee Guide on behalf of its members. The Fee Guide lists the services insured by the Medical Services Plan (MSP) and provides recommended private fees for Non-MSP insured services. The Fee Guide is a key reference tool for new members.

While most physicians may go their entire careers without being subject to a MSP billing audit, when an audit does occur it can be a stressful, disruptive, and overwhelming experience. One way to significantly reduce the risk of being audited is to have a good understanding of the Fee Guide, the rules, and the supports available to you.

Doctors of BC staff are here to help lower your risk of an audit and, should it happen, provide you with information on what to expect throughout the audit process.

Fee Guide features
- Search by keyword or fee code number.

HELP WITH THE RISING COSTS OF YOUR COMMUNITY-BASED OFFICE

Since April 1, 2020, eligible physicians have been able to receive the Business Cost Premium (BCP) on MSP fees for Consultation, Visit, Counselling, and Complete Examination services, to help cover the rising rent, lease, or ownership costs of a community-based office.

As agreed to in the 2022 Physician Master Agreement (PMA), effective April 1, 2023 the BCP will be expanded to apply to MSP fees for all services provided by eligible physicians regardless of the location at which the services are delivered, subject to conditions.

Further information regarding the April 1, 2023 BCP changes can be found on the Business Cost Premium web page.

The BC Medical Journal is Doctors of BC’s general medical journal. The only provincial medical journal in Canada, the BCMJ publishes clinical articles, essays, and letters written by BC doctors, as well as regular columns about practicing medicine in BC. Clinical content, essays, and letters are peer reviewed by an Editorial Board comprising an editor and seven physician board members from a diverse range of backgrounds and specialties.

The BCMJ also publishes service features such as classified ads listing physician employment opportunities, and calendar listings of continuing medical education (CME) and physician-focused events.

BC physicians look to the BCMJ for clinical information, to learn from each other, and to understand what is going on in the BC health care system. The journal strives to amplify physicians’ voices, opinions, research, and news, and provide an independent and inclusive forum to share ideas. Currently in its 65th year, the BCMJ is published 10 times annually. A print subscription to the BCMJ is included with Doctors of BC membership, but readers can easily switch to the BCMJ Headlines e-newsletter, which links readers to the online version of each issue.
